Initiatives and Opportunities

- The Building Resilience project
- Cal EITC
- T3 & 2-1-1 Vaccinations
The Building Resilience project is designed to complement and enhance the Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) outreach and education program by prioritizing referrals for supports (via intensive case management, ICM) based on the assessment of protective factors (strengths and needs) of participating families.

Specifically, Building Resilience seeks to:
• Increase access to concrete support to foster economic stability
• Improve regulation skills to reduce chronic stress
• Reduce the risk and effects of adverse childhood experiences (ACEs)
• Increase family functioning (resilience)

Increasing parental capacities, supporting economic stability, and improving effective regulation skills are the ingredients necessary to increase family functioning and prevent and reduce the effects of ACEs on children. Ultimately, the program aims to support disadvantaged and low-income communities in building resiliency.

The evaluation will assess the effectiveness and expansion of integrating EITC among a network of service partners and their understanding of the connection between EITC and ACEs.
1) Outreach and education re Fed and State Earned Income Tax Credits (EITC).
   • These are tax credits that often go unclaimed by eligible low-income households, so they end up leaving money on the table that could make a big difference for them.
   • The Cal EITC program is considered to be one of the more significant anti-poverty initiatives ongoing in the state.
   • We will ask clients if they plan to file taxes this year, and if so, offer to prescreen them for likely eligibility for Fed/State EITC.

2) Free Tax Preparation Appointments through VITA (Volunteer Income Tax Assistance) program.
   • We can assist income-eligible households with making free tax preparation appointments through the VITA (Volunteer Income Tax Assistance) program.
   • This is an additional savings for income qualified households, so they can get tax preparation assistance at no cost.
211 San Diego is currently supporting County in information for COVID-19, including general information, testing and vaccination:

- Educate on phases
- Navigating County/Community locations for vaccine appointments
- Assisting 75+ on setting vaccine appointments

Example of partnership: Jewish Family Service, On-the-Go, process of creating direct referral in CIE to assist with transportation to vaccination appointment
